WRITING COURSES FOR MULTILINGUAL STUDENTS

WRITING 120

COLLEGE WRITING FOR MULTILINGUAL STUDENTS

Designed to help students develop their general and academic writing abilities in English as an additional language. Students will develop written fluency and improve command over textual, rhetorical, grammatical, and discursive conventions common in a variety of academic disciplines with the aim of developing a rhetorical perspective on multilingualism as it relates to academic writing.

ACADEMIC COMMUNICATION FOR MULTILINGUAL STUDENTS

This course provides strategies to help multilingual students understand US-style academic lectures and create their own lectures or presentations by analyzing and producing key parts of lectures and presentations—openings, development and conclusions. Students will also learn to navigate seminar-style classroom discussion by working together on projects and discussing what they produce.

DISCIPLINARY WRITING FOR MULTILINGUAL STUDENTS: VOCABULARY AND GRAMMAR IN CONTEXT

This course supports upper-division multilingual students’ writing in various disciplines. Ideally, students take this course concurrently with their upper-level writing requirement so that assignments in the ULWR course can function as a basis for the development of disciplinary vocabulary and grammatical knowledge in context.
