

The Inner Ship: Turning toward Disaster in Early Modern

Josiah Blackmore
University of Toronto

Audio:

<http://www.lsa.umich.edu/rll/tiresias/Tiresias%204/Tir4GuestContributions/Blackmore.MP3>

Professor Blackmore reconsiders the significance of shipwreck narratives and the deeply afflicted subjects who survive these events. From medieval verse to early modern travel narratives, inward and outward ruins have disastrous effects upon the subjects embarking on the vessels and the discourse that directs their trajectory.