The University of Michigan offers outstanding instruction in Russian, a language spoken by the one hundred fifty million people in Russia itself, and by another thirty million people in the surrounding countries. Learning Russian opens the door to exciting new opportunities, as the economies of Eastern Europe continue to transform (Russia is now one of the world’s major oil exporters). Having “Russian” on your résumé will make you stand out in applications for jobs or to professional schools. Learning Russian will give you the chance to travel, study, and complete internships in the world’s largest country. All the achievements of Russian culture will be open to you — from Dostoevsky, Chekhov, Bulgakov, and Nabokov, to Tchaikovsky, Mussorgsky, and the Kirov Ballet. For more information and for course descriptions, go to our web site, or contact Svitlana Rogovyk at srogovyk@umich.edu.

Typical Fall Term Offerings*

Russian 101 (5 credits)
Section 1: M-F, 10-11 a.m.
Section 2: M-F, 12-1 p.m.

Russian 103 (Intensive 1st-Yr)
(8 credits) (Residential College)
M/T/Th/F, 11-12 & 12-1 p.m.

Russian 201 (5 credits)
Section 1: M-F, 10-11 a.m.
Section 2: M-F, 12-1 p.m.

Russian 225 (Heritage Speakers)
(3 credits)
M/W, 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Russian 301 (4 credits)
M-Th, 10-11 a.m.

Russian 401 (4 credits)
T/Th, 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. & W, 9-10 a.m.

Russian 519 (4 credits)
M/W, 10 a.m. - 12 p.m.

*See LSA course guide for complete schedule:
www.lsa.umich.edu/cg

764-5355
slavic@umich.edu
www.lsa.umich.edu/slavic/